I’ve scrolled through dozens of results and I can’t find the right text! What should I do?
Searches that don’t include an ISBN number often yield unreliable results, and your book may be on the 15th—or 25th—page of results. Repeat your search to include an ISBN number; if you don’t have the ISBN number for your book, you can easily find it by searching for the book on amazon.com, bn.com, or a similar bookselling site.

I used an ISBN number in my search, and I got no results at all. What should I do?

I entered in search terms and clicked the “Search” button and absolutely nothing at all is coming up. What should I do?
On occasion a glitch in the system or an internet browser glitch will prevent results from appearing. This can often be solved by clicking on the “show more results” and “show all results” buttons underneath the “Search” field. (see page 12 for an image of the buttons.).

I’m looking at my completed course materials list, and underneath one of the books I’ve selected there’s a picture of a seemingly random book. What is it, and can I get rid of it?
A quirk of the BookList system is that, on rare occasions, Google inserts an image of a “related text” below the book you’ve chosen for your course materials list. At this point there’s no way to get rid of it.

I typed in an incorrect ISBN number or other search information that didn’t yield any results—and now the Google search function doesn’t seem to be working at all. What should I do?
If the Google search function seems to be frozen or otherwise non-functional, return to your course materials list by clicking on the course’s section code, which is at the top left corner of the page—or by clicking on the link “Click here if finished adding course materials to this section.” Once in your course materials list, click “Add a New Book / Material” and try your search again.
